MAY BE WORK OF FIREBUG

Gwynneville Blaze Now Believed to be of Incendiary Origin.

Reports emanating from Gwynneville today state that the costly fire which visited that town last Friday night is believed to have originated through the work of a "firebug." The report is given additional credence in the light of past developments. The heaviest loser in the fire, Joseph Johnson, had his home destroyed in the same manner about three years ago. At that time the origin of the fire could not be accounted for.

VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH TO RECOVER

Physicians Say Mrs. John Elliott, Who Was Hurt at Knightstown Thursday, May Get Well.

DRIVER IS SUFFERING MORE

Mrs. John Elliott, who was thought to be fatally injured when an interurban crashed into an automobile in which she was riding last Thursday, will recover according to a statement made yesterday by her physician. Mrs. Elliott had her collar bone, shoulder blade and several ribs broken, and was injured internally.

Miss Laura Woods, the driver of the machine, who was thought only to be slightly injured at the time is suffering almost as much as Mrs. Elliott from nervous prostration.

Clifford Elliott, the four-year-old son of Mrs. Elliott, was buried Sunday.

MAKES A RECORD IN HOG SHIPMENT

S. H. Trabue Places Bunch of Porkers, Averaging 263 Pounds on Cincinnati Market.

FATTENED THEM HIMSELF

S. H. Trabue, who now resides in Third street, has shipped what is believed to be the biggest bunch of hogs which has gone out of Rush county for several months. He loaded on the train for the Cincinnati market two hundred and eighty-three hogs, averaging two hundred and sixty-eight pounds each. Mr. Trabue still has another bunch of porkers, numbering one hundred and ninety-five, the average weight being two hundred and ninety pounds. Although Mr. Trabue lives in this city, he feeds the hogs on his farm near Mays and is actively engaged in the stock business. He fattened the two bunches of hogs for the market himself.

WAS DUE TO OVER WORK

Mrs. Johnson Toiled Hard to Get the Home in Spiceland Ready.

The New Castle Daily Courier of Saturday stated that Mrs. Etta Young Johnson is suffering from nervous prostration, resulting from the shock sustained on account of the recent investigation of the death of her husband, George Edward Johnson. Mrs. Johnson says the collapse is due to overwork, she having been laboring very hard, getting the place into which she and her family recently moved, into habitable shape.

FORMER LOCAL REINSMAN

Curt Gosnell, Now of Cambridge City, Winning in East.

Curt Gosnell, the Cambridge City horseman, with a string of horses on the Eastern circuit, has been winning regularly. At Fairmount, W. Va., recently, he took first money in a $600 purse with his star, Willie Benton; first place in a $500 purse with Harry K. Thaw, and second place in a $500 purse with Sadie W.

NEW DENTIST BEGINS.

Dr. C. W. Whitley, dentist, of Harrisburg, Ill., is now installed in the dental parlors in the Poundstone building, formerly occupied by Dr. E. F. VanOsdol. Dr. VanOsdol is undecided as to his future. Dr. Whitley has a new and complete set of apparatus for his work.

Della Ryan filed a claim suit against Emma Newbold, administratrix of the estate of Mary Bohanon, demanding $3,305 in the circuit court today.

A marriage license was issued late yesterday evening to Miss Amy Claire Frye and Carl Ging.

NAME MAYOR IN SMALL HOURS BY FALSE ALARMS

George Barnard, Well Known Here, is Chosen Chief Executive of New Castle After Deadlock.

SELECTED ON 109TH BALLOT

Son of Republican Congressman From This District is Accorded Honor, Wholly Unsolicited.

George M. Barnard, New Castle's new mayor, named on the 109th ballot at 1:29 o'clock this morning, will be installed at once. At 1 o'clock when the 107th ballot had been taken to select a successor to Mark E. Forkner as mayor, the council took a ten-minute recess, being at that time apparently as far from a selection as when the first ballot was taken.

Jesse D. Smith, Democrat, had held his own throughout the ballots with few exceptions, with his four votes. Lacking but one vote to elect, at one time the Democrats abandoned him and voted for Horace Yergin, Democratic attorney, who secured four votes during several ballots. James L. Watkins, Republican, had continued strong, with three votes throughout and in several ballots had four votes, within one of election.

At times prominent citizens were brought into the ballot, including Fred Gause, Paul Brown and A. W. Hammer, members of the council, and others, but politics soon came to the fore and Democrats and Republicans went back to their favorites, Smith and Watkins, respectively. Nonpartisanship had been lost sight of and the selection of a mayor was purely a political endurance contest. Numerous attempts to secure adjournment failed. The council chamber was filled with interested citizens at 1 o'clock calling for an end to the contest and no adjournment.

At 1:20, on the 108th ballot George M. Barnard, son of Representative William O. Barnard, and former prosecutor of Henry county, was brought out as a compromise candidate to break the deadlock. In this ballot Barnard received four votes and on the next, five votes, and was declared appointed by Mayor Pro Tem Prigg. A committee was then sent to the home of Representative Barnard to get the new mayor so that he could be formally sworn into office at once. Barnard was not a candidate, did not attend the meeting and read the report of the proceedings up to the last two ballots. He was enroute home from an evening call.

CAN'T EMPLOY TAX EXPERTS

State Board Has no Right to do so, Says Bingham.

In an opinion handed to the State Board of Tax Commissioners, Attorney General James Bingham has held the board hasn't the right to use its funds for the payment of tax experts. The attorney general incidentally says boards of county commissioners have no right to use the public funds for the payment of tax experts. S. E. Smith, superintendent of the Eastern Indiana Hospital for the Insane at Richmond, sent a letter to the attorney general inquiring whether a statement alleging insanity, filed with a justice of the peace and sworn to by the medical attendant at the inquest, must be subscribed and sworn to before a justice of the peace, or whether a notary public may administer the oaths. Mr. Bingham held a notary public can administer the oaths.

WORRY FIREMAN IN SMALL HOURS BY FALSE ALARMS

Attempt Will be Made to Apprehend Offenders Who Have Caused Company Trouble.

BELL RANG TWICE LAST NIGHT

Alarms Turned in From Boxes at Extreme Opposite Parts of City—40 Minutes Between Them.

It was an angry and agitated bunch of firemen which gathered at the central fire station for the last roll call last evening, after they had answered two false alarms and had made nothing but a "water haul." They were not sure that it was the last call of the night and it is said that some of them did not even take off their clothes the last time, expecting to be ready at a moment's notice to answer the call of the bell. Two false alarms were turned in last night within forty minutes of each other from boxes at the extreme opposite sides of the city.

The first call came about twenty minutes after ten o'clock from box number twenty-three, which is located at the corner of Eighth and Cherry streets in the extreme northeastern part of the city. The fire company turned out and at the roll call, there were some rather fierce remarks as to what would be done to the fellow, if caught, who turned in the "still" alarms.

They were somewhat angered, as the first alarm last night was the second one in two days. The firemen were called out of their downy beds Sunday night by an alarm, turned in at box number thirty-seven and they were not especially fond of nightly performances of that nature. The first alarm last night from box twenty-three only rang once which caused many of the firemen to suspicion that something was wrong. It was the fault of the bell, however, as the box was open and had been turned in in the regular manner.

Within forty minutes after the fire bell had sounded number twenty-three, the bell began to toll again and this time it was number thirty-six. Many of the members of the city fire company had just crawled back into the "bay" when the last alarm was turned in, but they had to come even though they had a faint idea that it was not a real one. After they had found that the last alarm was a false one, many of the firemen vowed vengeance on the parties, who were the cause of it.

It is the belief of the authorities that the two alarms were turned in last night by the same people. About enough time elapsed for them to walk from one box to another, they being located over a mile apart. The police intend to keep a strict lookout for such offenders and they promise that if anyone is caught in such an act, that they will be summarily dealt with. It is said that the offense is a criminal one and that a penitentiary sentence may be attached if the guilty ones are apprehended.

DESTROYS LANDMARK.

Double-tracking work by the Pennsylvania railroad company through Cambridge City has resulted in the destruction of one of the old landmarks. This is the roundhouse that was erected back in the 50's by the Indiana Central railroad, and which stood directly in the path of the new tracking work.

CLEAR SUM ON CARNIVAL

Young Men of Catholic Church Make $363.43 on Event.

Although it seemed that the crowds at the carnival given by the young men of the Catholic church this year, were smaller than usual, it was evidently a success from the amount of money which was made on the undertaking. It was a financial success at any rate, as the young men have found that they cleared $363.43. They have been busy, since the close of the affair, settling their bills.

"SUICIDE KING" BREAKS IN AGAIN

But Charles Wolf Tries the Fire Route While Held in Connersville Jail.

STARTS BLAZE WITH BEDDING

Charley Wolf, who fell in some sort of fit on Central avenue, Monday afternoon, and who was taken to jail in an ambulance, tried to commit suicide by burning in his cell later in the afternoon, says the Connersville News. He recovered from his fit, or faint, produced some matches from his pockets and set his bedding on fire, when he thought no one was looking. Other prisoners were in the jail, and they saw the fire before it had more than started. Sheriff Miller was called and the blaze was put out before any harm had come to Wolf. His matches were taken away from him and he is still confined in the cell.

HORSES KNOCKED DOWN IN STALLS

Lightning of Yesterday's Storm Also Fired a Barn in Orange Township on Theobold Farm

CORN DAMAGED BY THE HAIL

The severe rain, hail and electrical storm which passed over Rush county yesterday left damage in its path. The hail was especially disastrous to the crops and mowed down young corn, in many places whole fields of the grain. In the southern part of the county, the hail was said to be almost as large as hen eggs and was very damaging to corn fields.

In Orange township the electrical display proved to be very damaging and disastrous effects were narrowly averted in many instances. Lightning struck the barn on the farm of August Theobold and fired it. The blaze was discovered and put out before any damage was done. A stroke of lightning which hit something on the Horace Boring farm in Orange township was so severe that every horse in the barn on the farm was shocked and knocked down in their stalls.

COUNCIL HAS BIG SESSION AHEAD

City Tax Levy, New Boilers and Light Question Will All Come up Tonight.

ONE IS OF GREAT INTEREST

Committee of Business Men Will Wait on Council to Consider Proposed Sidewalk Lamps.

The city council will meet this evening and from present indications, the session will be a long and tedious one as several matters of importance will be disposed of at that time. They will fix the city tax levy this evening as this is the last time which they will have opportunity to do so. The statute provides that the levy shall be named before the first of October. They will consider the purchase of new boilers for the water and light plant and will also be waited on by a committee of business men, when some definite arrangements in regard to the lighting of the business section of the city with sidewalk lights will be made.

The city councilmen have been busy in the past two weeks, preparing for the tax levy. The work incident to the fixing of the levy has been very great and the councilmen have been working overtime in order to have it ready for tonight's meeting. All of the members of the council are very reticent on the subject and refuse to state whether or not it will be higher or lower than last year's levy. Private committee meetings in the council chamber have been very numerous in the past few days.

The boilers at the city water and light plant are in such a condition that the city council will find it necessary to purchase new ones, such is the recommendation of Superintendent A. T. Mahin. The inside lining of the boilers is all eaten out, so that they are practically worn out. Several members of the city council, together with the mayor and the plant superintendent visited in Indianapolis Sunday, where they went to get a practical demonstration on boilers which they are considering for the local plant. They were well pleased with their trip and its results. It is highly probable that something in regard to the boiler question will be done this evening.

The question which the business men and the residents of Rushville are more vitally interested in, is the light question. Something will be done in regard to the lighting of the down-town streets with sidewalk lights this evening, when a committee of business men will wait on the council and the question will be discussed from all angles. The consensus of opinion among the business men is that the sidewalk lights would be a great improvement, would give the city a metropolitan air at night and tend to beautify the business district.

It is said that the cost of the lights would be very small, so small in fact that it would be hardly noticeable. Superintendent Mahin has urged the installation of the lights for several months on the theory that the down-town streets would be better lighted in that manner. It is planned to copy after Indianapolis only on a smaller scale. One business man said today that it was his understanding that five or six lights were to be placed in each square.

One prominent business man was approached on the subject today. He said that he was heartily in favor of the plan and believed it a very good idea. He is of the opinion that it would greatly improve the business district and help beautify it. He closed by saying that he was in favor of anything that would improve Rushville.

Prince Tsai Hsun Arrives At San Francisco.

HAD TO GO TO BED AT ONCE

President of the Chinese Naval Board Who Comes Here to Visit Shipbuilding Plants and to Convey His Emperor's Good Will to America, Was Taken Ill on Board Ship and Is Down With Incipient Pneumonia.

San Francisco, Sept. 20.—When Prince Tsai Hsun arrived on the steamship Manchuria he was given a rousing reception which might have warmed his heart had he not been suffering from incipient pneumonia, which compelled him to ride in a closed carriage in the parade through the streets and go to bed as soon as the procession reached his hotel. As he is a big man of full habit, the doctors fear that the results of pneumonia may be serious.

The prince caught a severe cold on the steamer, and it was increased by the trying weather. His suite fear that the voyage has proved too much for his strength and that he may be detained here by illness.

Prince Tsai is a fine-looking Chinaman, and he wears a great globular ruby half as large as an egg, which is the distinctive mark of Chinese royalty. He speaks no English. He is accompanied by his secretary, Chow, under secretary of state, who speaks English fluently, and by the ranking admiral of the Chinese navy, five naval experts and by a retinue of Chinese nobles and dignitaries. Many of the party wear the peacock feather, and all are marked as nobles by coral buttons on their hats.

Secretary Chow said: "The prince has come to this country to convey the good will of the emperor and the Chinese people to Mr. Taft and to the Americans. Incidentally he will visit the shipbuilding plants of this country.

As president of the naval board he is interested in marine construction." Secretary Chow denied unequivocally that the prince was here to place orders for battleships.

THE COLONEL IS ASKING FOR AID

Wants Taft to Help Him Out in New York State.

TAFT HAD NOTHING TO ADD

When the Colonel Journeyed Across the Sound to New Haven to Take Counsel With the President, the latter Told Him Plainly That He Would Not Mix Up Further in the New York Situation.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 20.—Colonel Roosevelt came here to see President Taft and seek aid in his fight against the New York bosses. Mr. Taft had come here to attend a meeting of the Yale corporation. The colonel made no specific request for action on President Taft's part, but it was apparent that he and his friends sought the conference for the moral effect that it would have in the state contest. The president made it clear to Roosevelt that he is in sympathy with his fight against the bosses, but he also told the colonel plainly that he would not mix up further in the New York situation. He told Roosevelt that he would stand squarely on the letter which he had written to Lloyd C. Griscom soon after the meeting of the Republican committee in New York city. Later Mr. Taft told the reporters that in his opinion his sympathy with the Roosevelt forces was clearly shown in his letter.

Prince caught a severe cold on the steamer, and it was increased by the trying weather. His suite fear that the voyage has proved too much for his strength and that he may be detained here by illness.

Secretary Chow said: "The prince has come to this country to convey the good will of the emperor and the Chinese people to Mr. Taft and to the Americans. Incidentally he will visit the shipbuilding plants of this country.

THE LORIMER CASE

Committee of Fellow Senators Now Investigating Bribery Charges.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Six United States senators who are to hear testimony in the Lorimer case have arrived in Chicago and opened sessions today in the Congress hotel. They are: Chairman, Julius C. Burrows, Michigan; Robert J. Gamble, South Dakota; W. B. Heyburn, Idaho; James E. Frazier, Tenn.; Thomas H. Paynter, Kentucky; Joseph F. Johnston, Alabama. The first three are Republican, the last three Democrats. The seventh member, Morgan G. Bulkley, a Republican, is expected to reach here today.

Senator Heyburn said: "This commission constitutes the highest court in the land. There is not such an autocratic body in America; not that we are going to be so very autocratic. The testimony will be mostly oral—we may receive affidavits, however. We will not be hampered by the formalities that hamper courts. At our first executive meeting we will decide on the point of allowing counsel to represent Senator Lorimer. He will have to accept whatever the committee offers him. He can't appeal. The sessions will be open—all except the executive meetings.

Why Steve Fleming's Fellows Chose the Discretionary Part.

Special Correspondence.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—It is a whole lot easier now to see why Steve Fleming and his fore-thoughted henchmen in the Twelfth district refused to permit Democrats of Lagrange and Steuben counties to hold a joint convention the other day to nominate a legislative candidate. Since the legislative convention held at South Bend last Saturday, where the delegates fought over the resolutions and refused to endorse John W. Kern for United States senator, it is made plain that Steve Fleming's fellows chose the discretionary part when they turned over the nominating function to two trusty county chairmen, and sent the delegates home. If this policy had been followed in St. Joseph county, the Democrats might have avoided one of the hottest little fights seen in northern Indiana politics this year. But it seems the St. Joseph county boys lacked the astute and direct bossism of a Steve Fleming. They were afraid to dismiss the delegates. They were a little hesitant about robbing the people's representatives of their powers. They feared the consequences of taking on themselves the functions delegated by the rank and file to accredited delegates. So, being gathered together in convention, the Democrats naturally and almost inevitably involved themselves in a scrap.

In the early part of the campaign, State Chairman Stokes Jackson, of the Democratic organization, gave out an interview in which he said: "When two or more Democrats get together they feel like shouting." This correspondence went to some pains to set out the things various Democrats felt like shouting when they got together. It is time to amend what Mr. Jackson said. In view of events of recent date, Democrats feel like fighting as well as shouting when they get together. An eminent Democrat now nicely placed at the statehouse summed up the condition the other day when he said: "The trouble with us Democrats is that we start off all together for harmony, and enthused to beat the band, and go all right for several weeks, until the campaign really begins. Then we begin to imagine things, to differ on methods, to diverge on issues and to resent this or that leadership and this or that attempted dictation. Just when we ought to be going good, we begin to fight, and we fight right up to voting time. On the other hand Republicans start out fighting, and by the time the campaign is going right they have found middle ground and are shoulder to shoulder, pouring hot shot into our disordered ranks. This is mournful, but it is true."

But to get back to St. Joseph county, Senator Shively, Kern, and the strife of last Saturday. The Shively men had sworn by the great horn spoon they would not permit resolutions endorsing Kern for United States senator. The Kern people, on the other hand, to avoid trouble, broke ground, made a typical Kern crawfish surrender, and agreed not to present any resolutions of any kind. So under agreement of the "leaders" of both factions, the convention was to be pulled off without resolutions. Someone "spilled the beans." In fact the kitchen stove was kicked over. When all was moving easily, with the majesty of the steam roller, up bobbed a patriot, yanked a paper from the inside of his prince albert coat, and began to read. The bosses glanced at one another. The factions began to glare. Figuratively speaking, they were reaching for dormicks and fumbling of dirk handles. Faction began to gnash teeth at faction, and accusations mumbled against mumbled criminalization. There was trouble. The resolutions were read to the finish without assassination being done. The paper called for an endorsement of Kern, Shively, Marshall and Barnhart. At least three of these propositions were salt in Shively bounds. So when the thing went to debate and vote the resolutions were refused.

The funniest thing of all, however, is the statement of Myron King, secretary of the Democratic state committee, trying to explain the Battle of South Bend, and to show that where the bosses had agreed to muzzle the rank and file, the rank and file ought to put up its snoot for the muzzle and say nothing one way or the other. King is serving supposedly in the absence of Joe Reiley, the mum and discreet Taggart henchman of past years. If King keeps up his talking, Taggart will find it necessary to put Reiley back on the job in person, as well as in fact. Reiley at least can keep his mouth shut when explanations are inadvisable.

The Evansville Press, a Democratic paper, has come out for the re-election of Senator Beveridge on the ground that Beveridge has made good, has served all the people ably, and so is entitled to consideration regardless of politics. The editorial in the Evansville paper, in the extreme southern end, and the repudiation of Kern in open convention at the extreme northern end, are two impressive and important political items of the day. Kern is to open his campaign at Evansville. The desertion of his cause by the Evansville Press comes at a significant time.

John W. Kern is essentially weak as a candidate for United States senator. His strongest role is "attorney for Taggart, the defendant."

The Martinsville Democrat rushes to the vindication of Lorimer. Probably imagines it is necessary to defend all bribery since that caucus which John Kern started to tell about.

TAGGART GROWS OVER ARROGANT

Weary Democrats Turn From His Bossism In Disgust.

HOW HE GAINED UPPER HAND

Expected Fight of His Life For Control This Year But Marshall Men Deserter Posts and Surrendered Without Striking a Blow For Decency and Right.

"Tired of Taggartism," says George W. Thompson, Democratic lawyer, in giving up a lifetime affiliation with the Democratic party in Indiana. "I believe in progress such as is set out in the Republican state platform," he adds, "and I believe Senator Beveridge best represents the spirit and conscience of the times."

Never in the history of the Democratic party in Indiana did the evil of Taggartism stand out more boldly than it does today. Thomas Taggart, most relentless and yet most oily of bosses, controls the party organization absolutely. Here is the history of the organization in brief:

Indiana Democrats were hopeful, following the state election of 1908. In that election they were successful with the head of the ticket, an anti-Taggart man. They succeeded in electing the superintendent of public instruction—an anti-Taggart man. Other Democratic state candidates who wore the Taggart tag, ran well behind the anti-Taggart racers, and were defeated. It was common talk among anti-Taggart men that if it had not been for the Taggart drag, the whole Democratic ticket might have succeeded. Be that as it may, the anti-Taggart candidates were the ones who won.

With T. R. Marshall at the Democratic party's head, the anti-Taggart shouters believed they would destroy Taggartism in 1910. They looked to Marshall. The Democratic governor said nothing. Also he did nothing. Tom Taggart prepared for a big fight. He laid all plans to scrap to a finish against Marshall for party organization control. What happened? Tom Taggart gathered his forces and marched against the Tom Marshall works. He found the batteries nothing but logs painted to represent cannon. He found the works practically deserted, and General Tom Marshall snoozing in the play of an electric fan.

Taggart raided the Democratic fortress and took possession of all the supplies and munitions of war, and put his men in garrison. The Marshall people looked for their flag and found it gone. In its place was a Pluto sign. Taggart had all but one of the state central committee, practically every man on the executive and advisory committees, had picked his own chairman, and had added, for his own use, a "campaign" committee with another of his henchmen at its head.

Through this organization Taggart selected the delegates, committees and candidates at the state convention of Democrats. So strong was his close organization that he mustered a majority of delegates in the convention against Governor Marshall on a hard fought issue, and was only defeated by thirty votes, and that through treachery on the part of Steve Fleming, a rival boss, who, for the time, took up Marshall's failing cause.

Taggartism means at this time that all but one state candidate on the Democratic side is a Taggart out and outer.

Dr. R. J. Aley, who left the ticket did so gladly for the reason that he had reason to fear that Taggart's forces were preparing to knife him to punish his independence. A Taggart out and outer went on in Aley's place, picked for the nomination by Taggart.

Taggart is working night and day to control legislative nominations made by Democrats, and to control the Democratic legislative caucus as he did in 1909.

This means Taggart desires to have personal charge of another senatorial election, and that he hopes to make the congressional and legislative re-apportionments in 1911.

Taggart has gone so far with his impudent bossism that he has overreached himself. The revolt against his dominance is wide-spread and growing.

The Tipton Advocate says: "A $9 hog is a stubborn thing." When Democratic free traders tell the farmer he ought to vote for $2.50 pork, the $9 hog certainly does stiffen some.

John W. Kern is essentially weak as a candidate for United States senator. His strongest role is "attorney for Taggart, the defendant."

The Martinsville Democrat rushes to the vindication of Lorimer. Probably imagines it is necessary to defend all bribery since that caucus which John Kern started to tell about.

FOGARTY HOPES MUCH BRIGHTER

Governor Marshall Holds Ward-en Appointment Over.

DODGES WRATH OF VOTERS

May Carry Out Fleming Pledge to South Bend Politician, But Will Not Deliver Goods Until After Fall Election—How Wardenship Was Peddled By Governor's Agent.

Governor Marshall and his board of trustees have put off the naming of a new warden for the state's prison until December. The Democratic governor pays high tribute to the late Warden Reid, Republican, and says he hopes to find a man who will keep the institution out of politics as Mr. Reid did.

In order to avoid political complications, the governor prefers to wait until after election day. Is the governor ashamed of the man he has promised the job to? Or does he fear the spoliomani's wrath and the adverse effect on politicians of a decent appointment?

Steve Fleming, according to the story told at the time of the state convention, has a man picked for the wardenship. Not only that, but it is related that Fleming promised the appointment to Ed Fogarty of South Bend in return for half the St. Joseph county delegation.

It was at the time Governor Marshall wanted delegates mighty bad. It was the time when the governor beat Tom Taggart by thirty votes in the state convention and forced the convention to select a senatorial candidate.

Ed Fogarty's bunch carried the day for the governor. The delegates from St. Joseph county believed they were voting in Fogarty's interests. They had the wardenship in mind, on pledge made by Steve Fleming. It is said Governor Marshall did not know of the Fleming pledge. That is not the question. The question now is, will the governor carry out Fleming's promise to Fogarty? It looks as if he would. It appears to the average man that Governor Marshall intends to name Ed Fogarty as warden of the state's prison, and it appears also that he is so completely ashamed of the deal that he purposely delays matters in order to avoid the political bad effects of an uncertain political appointment.

Mr. Taft says the Insurgents can have patronage now, but it remains to be seen whether this will stop the ghost dancing off the reservation.

Bob Chandler may have been willing that his singer wife should "wear the pants," but he might at least have kept his purse in his vest pocket.

Why shouldn't Ballinger resign, and spend his evenings by the fire side watching his wife knit and hearing the cat purr, instead of listening to serenades by the Insurgents Kale-thumpian band?

Apparently the United States government has lost millions by underweighing frauds. In an investigation now in progress in New York one man testified that he was the intermediary between certain importers and the custom house weighers and that the importers were willing to pay liberally for underweighing cargoes. One of the importers testified that he had begun paying bribes for the underweighing of imported lemons shortly after the passage of the Dingley law. A custom clerk testified that he was bribed to underweigh imports and that he divided the money with his immediate superiors. On cheese cargoes the bribes amounted to $100 or $150 a cargo.

As Uncle Joe Cannon got 600 majority in the primaries, it does not seem likely that he can be prevented from going into the ante room of the new Congress and hanging up his hat.

Mr. Taft is said to be not considering 1912, but few presidents feel it worth while to move into the White House in four years.

Even New Castle may become envious when Rushville comes out in gala attire with her new sidewalk lights.

Oh yes there is no reason why this city should not be up-to-date, especially when the cost is small.

In the minds of all great men there is always a question as to who is any greater than they.

They say that hotel keepers of the State do not like the county option law because it bars them.

The city council will fix the tax levy tonight. Revision downward would suit the big majority.

Press dispatches say that George Barnard was notified that he was mayor of New Castle about one-thirty this morning while on his way home from an evening call. We of Rush county would call that a morning call.

They say that Tom J. Geraghty is getting so busy over in New York that he has almost forgot his friends "back home."

It is said that discriminating editors should publish some stories behind closed doors.

Salvation Army Thrives

Following is a brief outline and report of the work of the Salvation Army in this city for one year, commencing August 29, 1909, and ending August 28, 1910:

During the year the total income was $1,083.51; the total expenses, $1,082.51, leaving a balance of $1.

The total salaries paid the officers and assistant was $398.48. There is a shortage of salary due the officers in charge of about $225.00.

Over $50.00 was spent for relief and charity purposes.

On August 29, 1909, the liabilities were $31.70. On August 28, 1910, they were nil.

There have been 11 conversions, 4 new members made, making the roll to number 18; 33 people assisted either with food or clothing or both; 22 meals were given, which does not include Xmas or special festivals.

The officers and assistants have spent 1,384 hours in visitations, in which time they have visited 1,269 homes, and prayed with 436 families and persons.

There are 85 periodicals sold weekly—70 War Crys and 15 Young Soldiers.

During the year there have been 319 open air services held, at which the attendance totals 1,814, soldiers and recruits only, averaging 5' and 6' at each service; and 142 indoor services, at which the attendance totals 7,306, an average of over 50 at each service.

Captain and Mrs. Carter, the officers in charge of the local work, are hoping to make this year even better. Services at the Salvation Army hall in South Pearl street, every Wednesday and Friday evening at 8 p. m. Junior meeting at 4 p. m. every Friday afternoon. Open air services nearly every night. Services on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 2 p. m. All are most cordially invited to attend.

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaudet management claims to have the best program for tonight which they have offered for several days. They will show the celebrated Imp film, "Fruits and Flowers." It is a drama of much merit with a strong plot and lively dramatic action. The idea expressed in the story is something new and extraordinary, something different from the usual topics. The picture is said to carry a moral which will not fail to prove a benefit. A new illustrated song will be sung.

"Back to Nature" is the title of the film which will be shown at the Palace theater tonight. It is a Vitagraph drama and is said to be of the same high standard which has been set by pictures of that make. The story is a tale of love which is unsurpassed for simple beauty and strength of moral. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Star Grand offers two comedy subjects tonight. The first is entitled "How the Squire Was Captured." It is a jolly, happy, unconventional little outdoor comedy which fairly overflows with a spirit of mischievous youth and springtime love. The second subject is entitled "Bumptious Takes up Automobiling." The fun in this picture is not of the slapstick variety, but contains an element of wholesome humanity, which will make it appeal all the more strongly to those who enjoy genuine and good, natural fun. "Baby Estella" in her electrical dance assisted by Earl Robertson, received hearty applause at every performance last night. They will appear again tonight.

Another business firm has sprouted up in the Republic building as if by magic. Louis H. Thatcher and Will L. Bennett have opened up a business in the building which will be known as the Art Brass Company. They are already actively engaged in the manufacture of the product and in making special designs of all kinds and descriptions with brass. They will manufacture hand hammered and pierced copper and brass gas, oil and electric lamp shades, name-plates, trays, arts and crafts goods of all kinds and descriptions. They will make articles according to any special design ordered and guarantee them to be just as specified. They expect to have some of their work on display in some of the windows of leading business houses in a few days. It is probable that arrangements will be made for their product to be handled by a local firm. The young men had received several out-of-town demands for this class of work and at once considered the idea of forming a company for the manufacturing of such goods.

IT'S SAME OLD STORY.

(Shelbyville Demoerat.)

The following regarding Frank Wherritt of this city, appeared in an article in the Indianapolis Star Monday morning, concerning reports filed by examiners at work under the State board of accounts:

William F. Wherritt, trustee of Addison township, Shelby county, is charged by the examiners with having made excessive payments for books, stationery and supplies. The payment amounted to $648.38.

Mr. Wherritt stated to a representative of the Democrat Monday afternoon that he had received no notification from the examiners who went over his books and could make no explanation regarding the alleged "excessive payments" as he did not know what transactions were referred to by the examiners. He knew nothing of the charge against him until it was read to him yesterday afternoon. Mr. Wherritt was trustee of Addison township from 1905 to 1909. He is at the present time the bookkeeper at the Frechling & Moner factory.

The GOOSE GIRL

By HAROLD MacGRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"More proof than this will be needed. Produce it."

"Speak," said Hans to the gypsy.

"Highness," said the gypsy, bowing, "he speaks truly. He came with us. For fear that the little highness might be recognized as we traveled, we changed her clothes. He took them, together with the locket. One day the soldiers appeared in the distance. We all fled. We lost the little highness, and none of us ever knew what became of her. She wore the costume of my own children."

"We shall produce that in time," said Von Arnsberg.

"Dannable wretch!" said the duke, addressing the gypsy.

The other shrugged. He had been promised immunity. That was all he cared about unless it was the bag of silver and gold this old clock mender had given him a few hours gone.

"I am summoning her highness," said the duke as he struck the bell.

"And, highness," added Grumbach, "dispatch some one for Gretchen, who lives at 40 the Krumerweg."

"The goose girl? What does she know? Ah, I remember. She is even now with her highness. I shall send for them both."

Gretchen? Carmichael's bewilderment increased. What place had the goose girl in this tragedy?

"Now, while we are waiting," resumed the duke, his agitation somewhat under control, "the proof, the definite proof!"

"Her highness stumbled one night," said Hans, "and fell upon the fire. I snatched her back, but not before her left arm was badly burned."

The gypsy nodded. "I saw it, highness."

And that was why Grumbach went to the military ball with opera glasses. Carmichael was round eyed. But Gretchen?

"The Princess Hildegarde has no scar upon either arm," continued Grumbach. "I have seen them. They are without a single flaw."

"More than that," reiterated the duke. "That is not enough."

They became silent. Now and then one or the other stirred. The duke never took his eyes off the door through which her highness would enter.

Hildegarde came in presently, tender with mercy, an arm supporting Gretchen, who was red eyed and white.

"You sent for us, father?"

How the word pierced the duke's heart! "Yes, my child," he answered, for it mattered not who she was, he had grown to love her.

"I am sorry you sent for Gretchen," said Hildegarde. "She is ill."

Gretchen sighed. To her the faces of the men were indistinct, and, besides, she was without interest, listless, drooped.

"My child, will you roll up your left sleeve?" said the duke.

"My sleeve?" Hildegarde thoughtfully looked around.

Hans opened his knife and laid bare her left arm. She tried to cover the arm.

"Let me look at it, Hildegarde," requested the duke. To him she presented her arm. But there was neither mole nor scar upon the round and lovely arm.

"Why do you do this, father?"

No one answered. Hans unceremoniously ripped open Gretchen's left sleeve. The ragged scar was visible to them all. And while they grouped around the astonished goose girl they heard her highness cry out with surprise.

"What is this?" she said, pointing to the two pairs of shoes and the two cloaks. She held up the locket, the twin of which hung around her neck. "Where did these come from?"

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Undoubtedly, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

which surged in her brain like combatants. If not a princess, what was she? If not a princess, she was free. She stole a swift glance at Carmichael, who seemed far removed from the heart of this black business, and had been looking at her he would have seen the gates opening into Eden.

"What was this little finger like?" asked the duke, shuddering.

"One time it had been cut or mangled."

"The man was tall?"

"Yes, highness."

The duke silently toyed with the little yellow shoes. Suddenly he laughed, but it was the terrible laughter of a madman.

"Come, all you, Gretchen, and you, Hildegarde; come, Carmichael, and you, Arnsberg, all of you! Let us go and pay a visit to our good friend Herbeck."

KEEGAN'S BLOW AT REFORM LAW

Attack On Child Labor Bill By Alleged Labor Leader.

HISTORY OF JAMES J. KEEGAN

Came to Indiana to boost Game of Telephone Company — Now appears to forward Steve Fleming's Game as Foe of Child Labor Reform Legislation — Fleming's Hostility Easy to Explain.

James J. Keegan, Democrat, candidate for representative in Marion county, calls himself a labor man.

When he worked for a telephone company helping to create public sentiment among labor people in favor of higher telephone rates for the corporation, Keegan was pointed out as a "labor leader."

He came to Indiana to work in the interest of a corporation seeking a new and advantageous franchise. He was a "business representative"—a lobbyist. He has recently joined the Indianapolis Commercial club, and is trying to gain the support of business men through his lobbyist connection with corporations. Labor men say Keegan will get better support from the Commercial club than he will get from labor.

These few lines in explanation of Keegan may partly show why he is out in a circular attacking the Beveridge child labor bill. He is a corporation man.

Labor men favor the Beveridge child labor bill, and support it heartily. They look on anyone who attacks that bill or hinders it or who helps delay or defeat it as the arch enemy of honest labor. Keegan, through his attack on the cause of labor, has become rated as a foe of the toilers.

Yet there may be an inside explanation of Keegan's foolish attack on the child labor movement. Keegan is backed by Steve Fleming, or wishes to be. The Fort Wayne boss who boosts Keegan is a brewer and bottler.

The other day Fleming was forced to pay several fines and large costs for permitting his foreman to violate the child labor law in the Berghoff bottling works at Fort Wayne.

Perhaps it is to please Fleming that Keegan attacks the principle of child labor reform. If it is necessary to attack the Beveridge child labor bill in order to tickle Fleming, perhaps Keegan feels the effort is justified.

ONE LIE NAILED.

The Democratic press bureau falsely states that Everett W. McGinnis, labor union man, was chosen clerk of the election board by the Democrats on the board. The fact is, the Taggart man on the board, M. M. Bachelder, refused point blank to vote for the union man. McGinnis was elected by the votes of Charles O. Roemer, Republican, and Governor Marshall. Bachelder was for Thomas Wright, and swore roundly when McGinnis was elected. Of course the labor union men know this fact. But some people may be fooled by the Democratic bureau's deliberate falsehood.

School men already have chosen between Ferrell and Greathouse for superintendent of public instruction. Ferrell, Republican, wins.

ELLINGHAM ATTACKED.

Formal Action By Union Printers Will Spread to Other Unions.

Action has been taken in due form against Lew Ellingham, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, and the typographical union of Indiana, 7,000 strong, is enlisted for the war.

The Muncie Typographical union, in its last session, made a finding against Ellingham, and the case is to be made known to every union in the state, and through the printers to the trades councils and gradually to all the 80,000 labor union men of Indiana.

The story is that Ellingham refused to permit the printers of Decatur, Ind., to unionize that city in 1904. At that time Ellingham was in active charge of the Decatur Democrat. He still controls that newspaper, though just now he is in the business of soliciting the people's votes.

An effort was made to complete the union's inquiry into the Ellingham case last spring before the Democratic state convention. There was not sufficient time in which to do the work. The matter therefore has been taken up since the nomination.

Lawrence M. Tester, at this time secretary of the typographical union at Frankfort, Ind., makes the charges on which the union bases its fight against Mr. Ellingham. Other union men join with Mr. Tester to prove his case.

Lew Ellingham, Democratic state candidate, is trying to square himself with labor for his anti-labor crusade of 1904. Too late, Lew.

John Reed, candidate for auditor of state, urges Republicans to boost hard for legislative ticket, as Democrats plan to strip office of the auditor to make jobs for Democrats.

AGAINST LABOR IN LEGISLATURE

Bill to Restrict Labor Vote Was Democratic.

JOKER AGAINST THE TOILERS

Registration Feature Opposed by Men Who Labor—Injustice in Every Provision of Clark Bill, Which Had the Support of Marshall and Other Democratic Party Leaders.

"A bill for the restriction of the industrial vote" is a fitting and proper title for Senate Bill No. 2, which was offered by Senator Clark, Democrat, and which was supported by Democratic leaders in senate and house at the session of 1909, of the Indiana legislature.

The bill is of especial interest to labor. It is well to call attention to the possibilities in the way of the restriction of suffrage rights under the legislation proposed and urged by the Democratic party leaders, including Governor Marshall.

The bill provided for the registration of voters six months before election day. This would mean that after such a registration had been taken, with the knowledge it would give as to the number of labor votes registered, any political party might nominate outspoken foes of labor and elect them by using this same measure to restrict the labor vote.

Labor men who investigated the bill at the time and who opposed its passage with all their might, declare this is not guesswork. The bill provided for the making of copies of all lists of registered voters for any "qualified voter, on request. The machinery for putting the facts in the hands of politicians was perfect.

It is held to be plainly evident that many workingmen would have been unable to register under the Clark bill. Under the measure, men whose occupations took them away from home, would have been forced to go before an officer and make oath and application, which application must be mailed, before the absent voter could register and save his vote. Nothing but sickness was permitted to stand as an excuse for not registering. Absence from home was not taken to be an excuse for failure to register six months ahead of the election.

By far the most important and dangerous feature of the Democratic bill to disfranchise labor voters was the power given to the challenger to bully, intimidate, delay and hinder the voter in the exercise of his suffrage rights.

The whole design of this provision was to restrict the vote so far as possible. And it is safe to say that the politicians who seek to restrict suffrage or cut down the number of votes are not working for the good of the people. It is plain to see that such politicians fear the result of a full vote on election day. They fear to trust government by the people.

Under the Democratic bill 88 questions were proposed to be filled out by the voter who had been challenged. This would mean much time lost in making out papers to meet the whim or evil purpose of the challenger.

Constant or even frequent challenging, under such a law, would mean many waiting voters deprived of their rights. This would be true especially in the early and late hours, when labor men must vote. It is a well-known fact that the man who works for his living must vote on his way to work, early in the morning, or he must cast his ballot after working hours in the evening. The early rush and the late congestion ought to be obviated as much as possible.

The Democratic politicians back of the Clark bill proposed in that measure to put in the power of the challenger the great army of industrial voters. The bill would have left it to the challenger to say whether or not labor should cast its ballot.

Labor men consider at this time that the Clark bill was urged by men who were elevated to office by labor's votes two years ago.

Labor men will see to it that these men gain no further power.

MARSHALL AGAIN

Attacks Roosevelt and Takes Side of Law-Breakers Against Church.

In his speech at Marion, Ind., the other day, Governor Marshall attacked Theodore Roosevelt, in a sneering and covert way, and also read to the church people again his famous dictum against the activity of church people in urging civic betterment and law enforcement. Friends of Roosevelt in all parties, and church people of all denominations decidedly disagree with Marshall in his estimate of Roosevelt and in his idea of the duties of good citizenship.

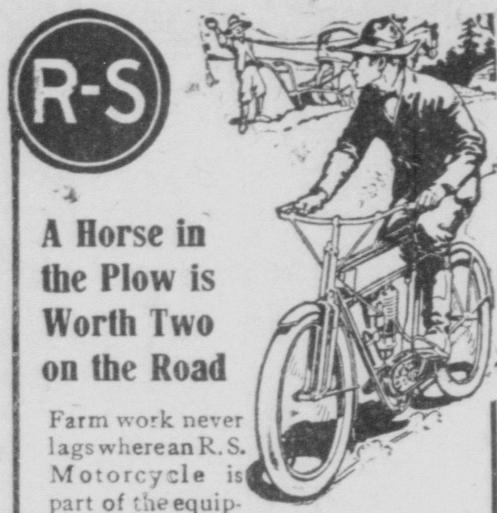

Tester's Testimony.

L. N. Tester, a union printer, says Lew Ellingham, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, "is an enemy of organized labor." Mr. Tester in a letter to the Frankfort News, goes into details and gives Ellingham's record. It is sufficient to show why labor men are preparing to explain Ellingham's attitude to some 72,000 wage-earners in the next few weeks.

RAIN HANDICAP TO AERONAUTS

Had to Sacrifice Ballast In Order to Keep Up.

FLIGHT WAS DISAPPOINTING

Those of the Balloons That Went Up at Indianapolis Saturday Evening and Which Have Been Heard From Thus Far, Did Not Even Approach the Record Established in the Great Race Two Years Ago.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—According to dispatches from different sections of the east, the two contestants that still remain in the national championship balloon race are the Buckeye and the New York.

The America II., Alan R. Hawley, pilot, Augustus Post aid, New York, landed late yesterday afternoon at Warrington, W. Va. The Miss Sophia, William T. Assman pilot landed in Calhoun county, West Virginia. Heavy rains handicapped all the balloons and those which have landed thus far did not even approach the record established two years ago. The pilots said they encountered rains nearly all Saturday night, and they were compelled to sacrifice much of their ballast to remain in the air as long as they did.

The two balloons that are still unreported are the Buckeye, commanded by James Wade, Jr., pilot, and A. J. Gorman, aid, of Cleveland, and the New York, with Clifford B. Harmon pilot and Captain T. S. Baldwin aid, of New York, aboard. The fliers were well scattered over the territory east and southeast of Pittsburgh.

VIGOROUS WARFARE

Is Being Made Against Social Evil by Indiana Health Board.

Indianapolis, Sept. 20.—"The social evil" is being attacked by the state board of health. A fight against many maladies will be vigorously waged. A new edition of an educational pamphlet issued by the board, states 80 per cent of Americans are the victims of "the social evil."

Demands for this newest publication of the board have reached the office from Australia, Siberia and the farthest corners of the earth where scientific men are wrestling with the same problems.

"It is high time American parents should drop their foolish prudery and begin to act for the good of their children," declared Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the board of health. "America must be purged by popular knowledge of medical facts and the mental stimulus of high ideals."

Hobbs Again Faces Court.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 20.—The second trial of Martin Hobbs for the murder of John G. Loomiller, a wealthy blind man of Hazelton, nine years ago, was called in circuit court here today. A special jury venire of forty has been summoned. The jury disagreed, standing eleven to one for conviction, at the first trial several months ago.

A Boy and a Cigarette.

Gentryville, Ind., Sept. 20.—Several buildings here were destroyed by fire and part of the town was threatened with destruction. The total loss was about $25,000. The fire started in a livery stable and was caused by a boy throwing a lighted cigarette in the hay.

Methodist Church Conference.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 20.—The seventy-ninth session of the Indiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church begins here tonight. Bishop Anderson will preside at the sessions of the conference, which will be held in Trinity M. E. church.

Dice Game Ended in Murder.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 20.—In a quarrel over a craps game at the camp of a Big Four railroad construction crew near this city, Jesse McLain, a negro, was shot and killed by Ed Dixon, another negro, who made his escape.

Leg Caught in Buzz Saw.

Washington, Ind., Sept. 20.—The left leg of James Flummerfelt, a saw-mill operator, was caught by a revolving saw and almost severed. The other leg was also badly lacerated. He may die.

MAKE CHANGE IN OFFICE

Nevil Phelps in Charge of The District For Prudential.

A change has been made in the local offices of the Prudential insurance, whereby the former local superintendent, J. F. Gillispie has been transferred to Connersville and Nevil Phelps has been substituted in his place. Mr. Phelps came here from Carthage and has been employed in the local office only a few months. He is an assistant superintendent of the sixth district. Mr. Gillispie's family will remain here for the present and not move to Connersville.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE FOOTBALL TEAM

Independent Eleven Will Play Here

During Season at South Main Street Grounds.

COMPOSED OF BEST PLAYERS

Lovers of the gridiron sport will not want for some football games here this season although it was thought for a time that no games would be had here, due to the fact that it was announced that the high school would not have a team this year. But an independent eleven has been organized which promises to outshine all previous elevens hailing from this city. The team will be composed of all the old football players in the city who have gained a reputation in high school, college and on local teams. The "cream" of the players in the city will be picked and an endeavor will be made to have a winning aggregation. They will play on Sundays and holidays.

The men who will probably be found in the line-up are: Ben Sparks, Ralph Stifler, Carl Gunning, Scott Buell, Mull Wallace, Elmer Frasher, John and Hugo Moffett, Ed Carter, Ellis Downey, Erman Smith, Earl Heeb and Walter Capp. Practice will be held regularly at the South Main street grounds, where the local games will be played. It is asked that all of the men come out for the first practice next Sunday, when an organization will be effected, electing a captain and manager.

The damage suit of Thomas McMath against Harry Colter et al. for $200.00 was dismissed in the circuit court today at the plaintiff's costs.
